Class Details

Tea 101

Monday, Jan 26, 1 - 3 PM | Hosted at Tea & Whisk

A great class for beginners with little to no experience with tea. Learn about the 5 tea types: white, green, oolong, black, and dark (pu'erh), and taste each to find out which type is your favorite. Get answers for some common misconceptions about tea. Practice brewing, so you can make great tea at home too!

Tea With Rie

Every Tuesday, 6 - 8 PM | Hosted at Tea & Whisk

Our weekly class for people who are seriously into tea. Learn about tea in a lively group setting, with explorations of teas from different styles, regions, and tea cultures. (Tea 101 is recommended prior to these classes, but not required.)

Intro to India

Tuesday, Feb 6

Discover India, the homeland of chai & English breakfast tea, as well as many fascinating, little-known experimental teas. India delivers powerful flavors with a great value, especially for people looking for all-natural teas.

Black Tea Focused Tasting (Advanced)

Tuesday, Feb 13 | Hosted at Tea & Whisk

An in-depth, focused tasting of black teas from 9 regions: China (Fujian), China (Yunnan), Japan, Taiwan, India, Indonesia, Sri Lanka, Nepal, Kenya, and Malawi. Compare how terroir, processing, and culture affects the taste of a single type of tea. Advanced class for regular students & experienced tea drinkers.

Intro to Japan

Tuesday, Feb 20 | Hosted at Tea & Whisk

Discover Japan and its famous green teas, including matcha, the bright green powder in our favorite green tea lattes and sweets. Learn a little of everything Japan, from its beautiful & intricate tea traditions, to techniques of brewing in a kyusu and whisking matcha.

Chinese Green Tea

Tuesday, Jan 27 | Hosted at Tea & Whisk

Taste various green teas from China, including some of its most famous: West Lake Dragonwell, Dong Ting Bi Luo Chun, and Chun Mei. Learn various techniques for brewing, and find your favorite Chinese green tea.
